

A Lowdham Book Festival On Tour event in partnership with
Broadway Cinema

An Audience with Jon McGregor

at Broadway Cinema, Tuesday March 9th 2010
6.30 - 7.45pm followed by a signing session in
the Mezz Bar.

In a few short years Jon McGregor has become the most exciting Nottinghamshire novelist writing today. Jon's first book was the mesmeric If Nobody Speaks of Remarkable Things, his second a novel of family secrets, So Many Ways to Begin. His new book, Even the Dogs, is set among the fractured lives of drug addicts living in the shadows of our cities and our lives. His first two novels were both longlisted for the Booker Prize, and this new novel is guaranteed to provoke reviews and attention.

Jon McGregor will be in conversation with Ross Bradshaw (Lowdham Book Festival and Five Leaves Publications) to mark the launch of Even the Dogs. He will be reading from all three novels and answering questions on his career to date.

Tickets for this event only from Broadway Cinema
Box Office: 0115 9526611

£6.20 (£4.50 concessions and Friends of Lowdham Book Festival)

Jon McGregor's books:
EVEN THE DOGS

Special offer - £10 with ticket purchase
(rrp £12.99)

SO MANY WAYS TO BEGIN - £7.99
IF NOBODY SPEAKS OF REMARKABLE
THINGS - £7.99

Signed copies are available over the counter at Broadway Cinema, Broad-Street, Nottingham and at
The Bookcase, 50 Main Street,
Lowdham, Nottingham NG14 7BE

Mail order - visit
www.nottinghambooks.co.uk or call The Bookcase on 0115 966 4143

A Lowdham Book Festival On Tour event in partnership with
Broadway Cinema

An Audience with Jon McGregor

at Broadway Cinema, Tuesday March 9th 2010
6.30 - 7.45pm followed by a signing session in
the Mezz Bar.

In a few short years Jon McGregor has become the most exciting Nottinghamshire novelist writing today. Jon's first book was the mesmeric If Nobody Speaks of Remarkable Things, his second a novel of family secrets, So Many Ways to Begin. His new book, Even the Dogs, is set among the fractured lives of drug addicts living in the shadows of our cities and our lives. His first two novels were both longlisted for the Booker Prize, and this new novel is guaranteed to provoke reviews and attention.

Jon McGregor will be in conversation with Ross Bradshaw (Lowdham Book Festival and Five Leaves Publications) to mark the launch of Even the Dogs. He will be reading from all three novels and answering questions on his career to date.

Tickets for this event only from Broadway Cinema
Box Office: 0115 9526611

£6.20 (£4.50 concessions and Friends of Lowdham Book Festival)

Jon McGregor's books:
EVEN THE DOGS

Special offer - £10 with ticket purchase
(rrp £12.99)

SO MANY WAYS TO BEGIN - £7.99
IF NOBODY SPEAKS OF REMARKABLE
THINGS - £7.99

Signed copies are available over the counter at Broadway Cinema, Broad-
Street, Nottingham and at
The Bookcase, 50 Main Street,
Lowdham, Nottingham NG14 7BE

Mail order - visit
www.nottinghambooks.co.uk or call The Bookcase on 0115 966 4143